

Composite Doors

with the Network VEKA difference...

What better way to finish off your home improvement project than with a stunning new front door?

It helps to have a guaranteed expert on your side...

As the first sight that greets visitors to your home and gives it a sense of character, it's impossible to underestimate the importance of the right front door.

Inviting, stately, impressive and welcoming – all descriptions you might aspire to in a front door and, thanks to the possibilities presented by the combination of PVC-U and high density polyurethane foam, your ideal design may be no more than a conversation away.

Upgrade to a composite door, installed by your local Network VEKA member, and you can truly express your individuality while benefiting from all the technical advancements inherent in modern day, cutting-edge materials.

Available in a wide range of colours and woodgrain finishes, and incorporated into one of numerous styles and glazing configurations, your composite door can appear as traditional or contemporary as you wish. With finishing touches like letterplates, house names or numbers and other hardware, you can create a unique public face for your home.

Composite doors boast outstanding energy efficiency, helping to keep cold and noise out, warmth in, and reducing your heating bills in the process. They are resistant to both rotting and swelling – things that traditional timber doors are prone to as a result of changes in the weather – and require only the minimum of maintenance. Scratch resistant and colourfast, you'll never need to paint them, even if your home catches a lot of sunlight.

With impressive security credentials alongside the long-life, low-maintenance and insurance-backed guarantees associated with all Network VEKA installations, composite doors come with peace of mind as standard!
